Attorney Ethics: The Ethical Quagmire of Representing Clients Who Choose to Violate the Law

Fulfilling a client's right to representation may sometimes prove unrealistic, particularly when that client demonstrates a hostile nature. Maintaining your personal and professional credibility is an essential element to sustaining strong relationships with long-term clients and to the successful growth of your practice. Panelists will help you identify those “red-flag” clients and provide guidelines you should employ when faced with adverse situations and how to proceed in a non-confrontational manner and without violating the Code of Professional Conduct when confronted with unacceptable behavior.

Moderator

- Robert J. Caldwell, Shareholder, Kolesar & Leatham (Las Vegas, NV)

Panelists

- Janeen Isaacson, Assistant Bar Counsel, State Bar of Nevada (Las Vegas, NV)

2:30pm-4:00pm

The Non-Profit General Counsel: The Next Frontier for Entertainment Lawyers

(Presented by the Forum's Volunteer Lawyers for the Arts Division)

There are many legal roles in arts and entertainment nonprofits ranging from serving on a board to outside counsel to executive director, president and/or general counsel. Come learn about the most prevalent legal issues and how to juggle many hats in the nonprofit world. Our panelists will also cover the ins and outs of nonprofit board service, a board member's fiduciary role, conflicts of interest policies, board governance and structure, directors and officers, insurance, and ethical challenges.

Performing pro bono work is a popular in road to nonprofit client development and management roles. Learn about opportunities to handle (and limit) pro bono engagements and to separate legal counseling from active board participation and hear about unique career paths to leadership within both small and large impactful nonprofit institutions and organizations.

Mindfulness as the Cornerstone for Competent Lawyering

A substantial body of research indicates that secular mindfulness, the practice of present-focused, non-judgmental attention, offers a powerful technique for disengaging from habitual, harmful behaviors, including alcohol and drug abuse, workaholism, and compulsive technology use. Particular mindfulness practices can also be used to cultivate greater empathy and compassion, which form important foundations for civility and ethical conduct. In this session, we'll explore the research on these findings and their implications for lawyers, and learn portable practices for implementing these important benefits for a happier, more balanced, and more effective life in the law. May be eligible for California competence issues credit.
