VINCENZO MOGAVERO

Shareholder & Chief Strategy Officer | Becker & Poliakoff

Morristown, Morris County County

An accomplished trial lawyer and litigator focused on business and construction litigation, Vincenzo Mogavero has represented clients in New Jersey and beyond in high-stakes, high-profile, complex civil and criminal cases, mediations, arbitrations, trials and appeals. Utilizing his extensive business and MBA background, he also serves as the firm's chief strategy officer, in which he helps execute business initiatives including new hires, additional practice areas and new offices.

What is your greatest contribution to the success of your company/clients? Since I have chaired Becker's NY/NJ litigation practice and managed the NY/NJ offices, we have built a client-centric business model that at its core employs a business minded approach to every engagement that we take on. At the firm level, I am fiercely protective of Becker's collaborative culture. Our low attrition, exponential growth both in headcount and footprint, and outsized results reflect the fruits of that synergistic culture.

In what ways have you seen your role as a "leader in law" evolve over the years? My evolution as a "leader in law" has two parts: to be a servant leader to my clients, my firm and the community; and to mentor the next generation to do the same.

What do you enjoy most about your career? There is no thrill like winning after months (and in some cases years) of preparation and I still love taking on cases where I can genuinely help a client in a difficult situation. For me, the most rewarding part has been teaching associates to be better lawyers. Like a player patrolling the sideline as a new coach, I miss parts of the game, but I enjoy the challenge of bringing out the best in my teams.
